Plans For Scenic Road By-The-Sea

NEW BOULEVARD PLANNED FROM SUNSET CLIFFS TO MILITARY RESERVATION

It is announced that the city council will be asked next week to take steps to secure another beautiful scenic ocean front drive for the people. A resolution has been filed by Councilman Maire requesting that a committee of one or more be appointed by the council to confer with the head of the International Theosophical society on Point Loma with a view to securing a right-of-way for the road along the ocean front.

The resolution asks for a boulevard 80 feet wide from the south end of Sunset Cliffs boulevard through the property of the Theosophical society along the ocean to the north end of the government reservation on Point Loma, then eastward to the top of the point, where it would join with the government road. The resolution points out that such a boulevard would have a certain military as well as scenic value. It would give another beautiful loop drive to match the one on the bay side of the point.

THE NOLEN PLAN FOR

OFFICIALLY ENDORSED

Smelt Run Due Soon?

SPRING VISITATION
OF SILVERY FOOD FISH
AT OCEAN BEACH

The smelt season is here again, and it is asserted by such an excellent authority as Turner B. Kline, who knows all about the finny tribe, that the shiny, silvery food fish are due to run at Ocean Beach next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The small, slippery denizens of the deep will very likely make their first appearance this spring on Monday night between 9 and 10:30 o'clock, and on the two succeeding nights they will return about half an hour later each evening.

ANOTHER PREDICTION

Jack Neumont, of the O. B. Bait House, declares that the smelt will run tonight (Saturday) and on Sunday and Monday nights. He also states that millions of 'em have been seen in the bay this week and the run promises to be a big 'un.

MORE PROGNOSTICATIONS

Whereas the aforementioned assertions are ambiguously at variance in the assortment of days scheduled for the appearance of the aforesaid slippery and shiny smelt, Attorney F. A. Plank asserts that to the best of his knowledge and belief the small fish hereinafter apostrophized will perforce flop and flounder on the sands of Ocean Beach on next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings between and betwixt dusk and midnight.

While all these promiscuous prognostications may or may not be true, Druggist Fred H. Kraft positively prescribes Friday night as the one and only night for fish! And there you are! The entire week is duly labeled and one can pick any night to their individual liking for catching smelts.

We thank the rains, because, due to them, someone got busy and sent us a tractor, and now we are in hopes of getting a nice, green lawn. Rains, we thank you!

The "Girls' Hi Jinks" came off last week, and included, among other things, a tumble act. The only thing the matter with it was—from the boys' point of view—the admission, because the girls got in free and the boys were charged 15 cents.

Tryouts for the Boys' Hi Jinks will be held soon, and a lot of local talent will be shown—we hope! The Hi Jinks will be supervised by Mr. Swenson, and will be in the hands of the executive committee of the Shavers' club. All boys in the school are invited to try out for the acts.

The Shavers' club recently challenged the members of the faculty to a baseball game, and the faculty, in the person of Coach Foote, accepted the challenge. The game will be played Thursday afternoon. The admission will be 10 cents. We don't wish the faculty any bad luck, but we hope there are plenty of holes in the field!

The Shavers' club has put up a sign in front of the school building, asking for old tires. We would appreciate the gift of these "old shoes," as they will be sold and the money applied toward the athletic debt of the school.

"The Pointer" came out yesterday, March 12. This edition of "The Pointer" was given to the seniors, and although the class is small, we must admit that they made a pretty good job of putting out a paper. Horace Stevens, president of the senior class, wrote the editorial, and many juniors are going around gnashing their teeth at that said editorial. All the juniors say is: "Wait till the junior edition comes out!"

Plans for an annual have been discussed, and in a week or two, after all the details have been worked out, the actual work will begin. The annual will have about thirty-two pages, glazed paper, many cuts, and the blessings of the junior class, who are putting it out. The editors of the annual have not yet been elected, but will be in the near future. The members of the faculty are all behind this first attempt at an annual, and we feel that not only will it be the first annual, but it will also be the best one.

A Reporters' club is in process of formation, and "The Beach News" will be furnished with news items each week by members of the new organization.

COMPETITION IN SPORTS

University of Southern California and University of California will meet in five sports at Los Angeles on March 19 and 20. The competition will be in baseball, track, wrestling, swimming and water polo.

City Won't 'Chip' Cash

COUNCIL THINKS SEAWALL
CONSTRUCTION IS WHOLLY
LOCAL IMPROVEMENT

Adjudged by the city council this week as a "purely local improvement," a request by Mission Beach citizens for the early construction of a seawall, with two-thirds of the cost to be borne by the city, was denied and the city engineer was ordered to draw up plans and specifications for such a seawall, the entire cost to be assessed to a district composed of the Mission Beach lots. If the latter plan fails to meet with the approval of a majority of property owners, a protest may be entered against the improvement.

City Manager Fred A. Rhodes stated that the expense to each lot would not be great if the seawall was constructed under the district plan. He estimated that a creosoted wooden seawall, with concrete walk, would cost about $22 a lineal foot, and a concrete seawall about $30 a lineal foot.

MISSION BEACH

SEAWALL MASS MEETING

Circulars have been issued calling for a mass meeting to be held Wednesday evening, March 17, at 7:30 o'clock, for the hearing of a committee report concerning a seawall at Mission Beach. The meeting will be held in the new building next to the M. B. post office.

MME. TINGLEY TO TALK

AT TEMPLE SERVICE

Katherine Tingley, leader of the Theosophical movement, will speak tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon at the temple service in the Memorial Temple of Peace, International Theosophical headquarters, Point Loma. A feature of special interest in the program will be two nature songs, sung by children of the Raja Yoga school. They will also be a choral number by the full chorus of the Raja Yoga college and a selection by the Isis Conservatory string quartet. The temple service begins at 3 p. m. and is free and open to the public.

A large number of home-site seekers and thousands of interested persons were in attendance at the official opening of the famous Sunset Cliffs property last Saturday afternoon, March 6, when formal presentation of a deed to Spalding park to Councilman Don M. During his address, Mr. Mills stated that he and the Pantagones-Mills-Shreve company, owners, had taken the property over for development in trust, to carry out the visions of the late A. G. Spalding, who had reserved Sunset Cliffs from his other extensive Point Loma properties for creation of the finest residential subdivision to be found in the world.

New Dog Law Must Be Obeyed

CANINE VACCINATION
FOR ENTIRE COUNTY NOW
IN FULL FORCE

By order of the county supervisors, all dog owners in San Diego county must immediately have their pets vaccinated against the rabies. This order, like a recent one passed by the city government, is to check the spread of the disease among dogs in this county.

Deputy sheriffs, constables and other officers have been ordered to capture dogs running free without a tag certificate of vaccination. The order also affects dogs that are confined to the premises of their owners throughout the county.

County officials announce that the emergency ordinance will be rigorously enforced and it is stated by Undersheriff Ed. F. Cooper that "Beginning today (Saturday, March 13), every dog found in the county that has not been vaccinated will be destroyed. We hate to have to do this, but to prevent the spread of the epidemic this action will be necessary."

$600,000,000 a Year Loss Caused by Auto Accidents

CLOSE to $600,000,000 a year is the annual economic loss due to automobile accidents, both fatal and non-fatal. This appalling sum is only an estimate, as no complete figures on the number of automobile accidents in the United States are available, but it has been conservatively estimated that 22,600 lose their lives each year by automobiles, and $5,000 a human life is the lowest value put on it by economists.

Of non-fatal accidents 678,000 occur annually, causing average cost of $175. Then, each accident averages $50 property damage, insurance records show. This makes the staggering total of $581,650,000 a year.

No account is taken here, points out the Stewart-Warner Safety Council for the prevention of automobile accidents, of the economic value of time lost by the injured due to delays caused by accidents or to minor property values, such as bent fenders, expense incurred while motor vehicles, particularly the commercial ones, are out of service, due to accidents. Were all these taken into the reckoning, the total figure would surely be doubled, or around $1,163,700,000.

Some idea of the enormity of this economic loss, most of which is avoidable, can be gained by such relationships as these: It is twice the cash income of the 1923 wheat crop; it is equal to about one-third of the much-discussed French debt to this country; and, finally, this loss would buy the entire city of Chicago at its present realty assessment valuation.

HOW THE LAMB MARKET BEHAVED IN 1925

THE prices for lamb have been relatively high in 1925, with lamb supplies available for slaughter only slightly below normal figures, according to an analysis of the lamb market by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. In the sheep-producing states pastures and ranges have been good. Conditions in the whole area west of the Rocky mountains are vastly better than they were a year ago.

The sheep industry was much more profitable in 1925 than it was in 1924. Lamb prices in Chicago averaged $15.35 in November, 1925, as compared with an average of $6.65 for the same month in the five years from 1909 to 1913. The top price was reached in January, at $18.50 per hundredweight, and the low price of $12.50 came in May. Both prices and receipts have fluctuated up and down through the entire season, but efforts to expand production have kept market receipts down because ranchers were retaining their ewe lambs with which to replenish and increase their flocks. The number of ewes slaughtered from July to September in 1925 is the smallest for that same period during the last four years.

The number of lambs on feed both in the corn belt and in the v feeding districts is smaller than last year and some advance in the price of lamb seems probable from now on. There will probably be a lamb crop, however, this spring and a moderately lower level of these lambs come to market during 1926.

PHONE FIFTY YEARS OLD

Fifty years ago the first spoken sentence was successfully transmitted over a wire by Bell. The line over which these words were carried stretched only from one room to another, and the test, although successful, was regarded by many hard-headed business men of those days as of little value, and the crude device utilized was called a toy.

Today more than 16,600,000 instruments and a total wire mileage of over 44,500,000 miles tie all parts of the country together with a vast network which permits a wonderful vocal intercommunication among millions of telephone subscribers living in every section of the United States.

FORMER LUXURIES

ARE NECESSITIES NOW

The United States at the present time has the greatest industrial capacity in its history. There is much room for further expansion and there is a wide field for investment. We are entitled to judge the future by the past, and the past twenty years in this country have given us machine production, electric power, the telephone, the automobile, the gas engine, chemical processes, the X-ray, the motion picture, the radio, and a thousand devices that have widened the opportunities of the people, absorbed the fruits of industry and employed capital in ways that were not seen in advance.

Like other industries which have contributed to national welfare for generations past, new industries are making of themselves a primary need. Luxuries of ten years ago are now necessities. Modes of life have changed completely with new modes of travel, new modes of thought and new mechanical inventions. Opportunities of this country are so great that, as time goes on, production is bound to increase while buying power expands, lifting to higher levels the standards of our national life.

GREAT BUILDING OUTLOOK

"California Weekly Industrial Review" states that all reports indicate that the outlook in the building trades for this year is favorable, and in number of homes, industrial plants and permanent business buildings, 1926 will surpass all former years.

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Nearest Fixed Star

Centauri is said to be the nearest of the fixed stars. The winner of the last Indianapolis automobile race would have to maintain his average speed about 29,000,000 years to reach it. That doesn't allow for time out to change tires, either. And Centauri is the nearest! Others would require considerable extra travel.

If a thought comes quick of doing a

Do it that very minute! Don't put it

What's the use of doing a kindness

Ocean Beach Women's club was marked last Monday night with a very enjoyable international program. An excellent talk on "International Relations" was made by Miss Josephine Seaman, president of the County Federation of Women's Clubs. A number of old folk songs were ably rendered under the leadership of Mrs. C. D. Scott, while two duets were delightfully sung by Mrs. W. B. Leonard and Mrs. W. D.
Feigley. A picturesque Russian dance was splendidly given by a group from Miss Elizabeth Burchenal's class in folk dancing.

Joyous Colored Taffeta Ties Enliven the Smart Tailleur

Not every scarf is expected to be two and a half yards long and wide in width, this spring. To be sure, this is a very popular dimension, that is for the usual graceful scarf. Indeed the scarf in all its phases is an outstanding note in spring attire. However, there is promise of a new vogue.
The smart idea is the narrower neck-tie type, especially for the tailored dress or street costume.

There's a knack in arranging these fancy joyous colored ties. They must be bowed and knotted with an "accidentally-on-purpose" nonchalance to add the required bit of dashing pic-turesqueness to the tailleur.

Plaid taffeta is a favorite fabric for the modish narrow tie. In the picture a pair of tie-cuffs completes a most charming taffeta set.

Comes from across seas the word that the chic Parisienne is wearing a necktie of colorful metal brocade.
These ties are wound about the throat choker fashion, either tied in a double bow at the side or with the two short ends brought to the front.

LADIES VS. WOMEN

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

"A DULT classes for ladies and men," the bulletin announced, and I could not help asking myself the difference, if there is any, between a lady and a woman.

I recall reading, not long ago, a discussion between two servant girls as to the relative merits of their two mistresses, each of whom had her apparent virtues as well as her frailties.

"No matter how intoxicated my mistress may become," one of the maids affirmed, "she is always a lady." Great praise, indeed! All of which reminds me of the ancient gag concerning the gentleman at the reception who asked his host:

"Who is that lady standing by the door?"

"That's no lady," the host replies.

"That's my wife."

A servant girl of one of our neighbors in commenting upon the qualities and characters of a recent guest upon whom she had waited, remarked:

"She's no lady."

"Why?" was the query.

"Well," was the reply, "she ain't got a lady's voice."

The old idea of a lady was one of exterior largely—of manners and dress and employment. A gentleman was supposed to have soft hands and fine clothes, and elegant leisure. In England, at least, he could never go into trade; he would have scorned being a plumber or a dry goods merchant, or a professional football player. His time was always his own.

A lady in similar fashion was a person—female of course—who sat pretty consistently in the drawing room.
She, too, did not soil her hands with work, she never wore cotton stockings, or went upon the streets without gloves, or carried a package home from the shop. It would not have been refined to do so. Her manners were always refined, and she never looked into the kitchen. She kept herself aloof from any contact or knowledge of the gross world and never heard or uttered an indelicate word.

Ladies were always women, but women were not always ladies. It is equally true today, excepting that the word "lady" today does not always have an appealing connotation. It suggests a high finish rather than substantial and durable construction. Ladies are well dressed, well mannered, and gentle souls, but it is women who manage their husbands, and run city politics, and conduct church bazaars.
Women, not ladies, are the substantial, steady, brainy citizens who are competing with men in every profession and walk of life. When it comes to the female engaging in business enterprises she is always referred to as a woman. And yet the term "lady" does still stand for certain social and temperamental graces. We can generally tell whether or not a woman is a lady by the way she treats her social inferiors. Some one has said that a lady treats her inferiors and her superiors as her equals and her equals as her superiors. You can generally tell whether or not a woman is a lady by what her servants have to say about her.

What Use Are Husbands?

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE husband woman wants is one who helps her get her dishes done, who picks things up, not leaves them loose.

A man who's just a little use, And not too proud to sweep a floor, A handy man to hang a door, Or close one that he finds ajar— And not the way that most men are.

The husband women like to see, I think all women will agree, Is one who holds a baby right, Is one, when he comes home at night, Who takes the children off her hands; Is one who children understands— I guess the model husband, maybe, Is one who likes to hold the baby.

But ordinary husbands—well, You women know, I needn't tell. There's not a thing that they will do To help you get your housework through.

They're off downtown at break of dawn, To some old office they have gone, And there till late at night they stay—

What are they good for, anyway? (© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

GOOD FOODS

AS SPINACH is such a valuable vegetable it should be served often during the winter and often in the early spring. When the fresh vegetable cannot be obtained the canned will answer very well.

Cream of Spinach Soup.

Take one-half peck of spinach cooked and put through a sieve, add to it one pint of chicken broth and one quart of milk, thicken or bind with two tablespoonfuls each of flour and butter. Cook well and serve hot with croutons.

Anchovy Purée Sandwiches.

Pound four boned anchovies, two hard-cooked egg yolks, one-fourth of a cupful of butter and a few dashes of cayenne in a mortar until smooth. Then press through sieve, spread small rounds of white bread with the mixture and an equal amount with mayonnaise dressing. Put together in pairs. Sprinkle one side of each small sandwich lightly with paprika and serve with salad.

Meat Loaf.

Take one pound each of chopped beef and fresh pork, one cupful of bread crumbs, one cupful of strained tomato juice, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, salt and pepper to taste. Stir and mix well, bake one hour in a small bread tin.

Lemon Dumplings.

Add the grated rind to the juice of one lemon, one cupful of molasses, one-half cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of butter, one cupful of hot water, one egg, one cupful of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt. Let the lemon, molasses, sugar, butter and hot water come to a boil, then drop the dumplings into it—made by sifting the flour and dry ingredients, adding just enough milk to make a drop batter. Cover closely and boil twenty minutes to one-half hour, using care that the mixture does not burn.

Among the NOTABLES

JULIA MARLOWE

THE name "Julia Marlowe," has a magic sound, for it brings up visions of delightful matinees and wonderful evenings, while this talented actress played "Rosalind" in "As You Like It," and the wonderful "Juliet" and others of Shakespeare's lovely women characters.

Julia Marlowe, whose real name was Sarah Frost, was born August 17, 1870, in England but came to this country when she was about five years old. Her family settled in Ohio, and she was educated there. But when she was twelve, her overpowering desire to go on the stage led her to join a juvenile company which was playing "Pinafore" and "Chimes of Normandy." She toured the country with them, and showed such talent that she became the little leading lady. Then she played a child's part in "Tip Van Winkle" with a regular company, and a small part in "Romeo and Juliet." That decided her, she wanted to play Shakespeare.

So she went to New York, and studied hard for three years and became a real "star" when she was only about seventeen. She played "Ingomar" and was highly praised—meanwhile, she had adopted the stage name of "Julia Marlowe." Seriously, then, she started playing Shakespeare, at first receiving plenty of praise from critics but little financial support from the public. Presently, however, every performance was crowded and she became the best loved actress of Shakespearean drama.

WHO SAID
"Nothing succeeds as success"

THE life of the man who uttered these words was a living exemplification of their soundness and truth. Success was the mother of success in the life of Charles Maurice de Talleyrand Perigord. His success succeeded and led to greater honors and achievements.

Born in Paris, France, February 13, 1754, this man who is best known to history as "Talleyrand," was president of the national assembly at the age of thirty-six. Two years later he was sent to England on a diplomatic mission; but while there, charges were brought against him at home of being implicated in a royalist plot, and he was proscribed. To return to France would have meant death at the hands of the revolutionists, so Talleyrand followed the plan of so many political refugees of that time and sailed for America.

He remained in this country for two years, after which he returned to his native country. Here, the enmity for him having decreased, he was again active in political circles and was appointed minister of foreign affairs. Soon his old enemies commenced their work again, and because of further charges of favoring the royalists, he was forced to resign.

Talleyrand now devoted himself heart and soul to the coming master of France, "the man of destiny"—Napoleon Bonaparte; and to the work of Charles Maurice de Talleyrand Perigord can be attributed much of the fame of his illustrious sovereign. Upon the return of Napoleon, and his appointment as first consul, Talleyrand was reappointed minister of foreign affairs and for the next four years was the man who executed all of the Napoleonic schemes.

Following the Peace of Tilsit in 1807, however, he became an opponent of the emperor and secretly joined a royalist organization. To him goes the credit for organizing the Quadruple Alliance. He died in Paris May 17, 1838.—Wayne D. McMurray.

Community Building

Choose Best Time to Make Home Alterations

Repair work and new construction should be classed separately for a number of reasons. Repair work of a minor character is usually paid for on a time basis; that is, the owner pays a fixed rate per hour for the services of the men engaged. When this is done during a period of inactivity in a given trade the most efficient workers are ordinarily available, and they are able to do a better job in less time than less skilled men who might perform the work during an active period.

Home owners from time to time employ building trades workers to do outside and interior painting, to put on new roofs, to make alterations and additions to plumbing systems, to overhaul and repair the heating apparatus and to do interior remodeling, such as changing partitions and laying the floors in bathrooms. They also require grading of grounds, the construction of driveways and erection of enlargement of garages and other outbuildings. Then there are sidewalk repairs, laying of concrete or masonry floors in the cellars, waterproofing, replacing awnings and screens and repairs to exterior woodwork. The time chosen by the owner for such work is of importance to himself and to the community and bears a close relation to the general cost of living.

Cities Now Recognize Need of Playgrounds

Although in the last quarter of a century the United States has passed from a predominantly rural people to a predominantly urban people, the average American is "an outdoor animal."

As proof of this statistics show that 711 American cities today offer playgrounds and recreation as a natural and usual function of government, and the profession of play leader, or recreation director, numbers almost 16,000 persons.

Municipal playgrounds, parks, auditoriums, stadia, bathing beaches, golf courses, opera and radio are to be found everywhere, and public recreation is about the last word in the evolution of positive functions of government for the promotion of the happiness of citizens.

Home Ownership

As a practical proposition home ownership should appeal to every family. When it is considered that approximately one-third of our life is spent in the home it is readily obvious that home is of paramount importance. Paying rent, it has been pointed out, is purchasing a home but it is purchasing it for the other fellow. Money paid out in rent over a period of years represents home ownership to some one. Modern methods developed in purchase plans have made it possible for the average person to eventually own a home with practically the same monthly outlay that would be required as rent. In purchasing a home one should be careful not to undertake a proposition beyond their means.

Preserve Highway Beauty

Action to preserve the beauty of the highways in San Luis Obispo county, California, has been taken by the board of county supervisors in the passage of an ordinance prohibiting the erection of signs and billboards along the county highways. Exception is made for legal notices and recognized direction signs for tourists, while signs will not be permitted on fences, trees, or on buildings belonging to the county. Fines provided range from $25 to $200 or imprisonment for not more than 60 days, or both, for violations.

First Sheep in America

Sheep were introduced from Mexico into the portion of the country now known as Texas at a very early date. In 1872 Mexican sheep were brought in numbers into the state, but at this time the industry was not prosperous. In a report of the Department of Agriculture for 1892 it was stated that in a short period of 24 years the industry had developed to a great extent, and that the yield of wool per head had increased from 2.68 pounds to 6.8 pounds. This indicated that the industry was established before 1872.

Food Pilgrims Brought

The food that was brought over on the Mayflower consisted of bacon, hard-tack, salt beef, herring, cheese, beer or ale. For luxuries they carried butter, vinegar, mustard and perhaps lemons and prunes. About 1630 the food of the colonists consisted of fish and game, oysters, clams and mussels, beans, pumpkins, peas, squash, turnips, parsnips, onions, apples and pears, grapes and huckleberries. Cranberries were not then known.

Patent Office Busy

Every year more than 80,000 applications are made for patents in the United States, of which amount one-half are granted. The number of applications has doubled in the last 25 years. About 1,500,000 patents have been granted during the history of the United States patent office. No other country approaches that record.

"I'll tell you why they wouldn't insure you—"

"You allowed constipation to become chronic—until finally it resulted in organic disease.

"People don't realize how insidious constipation is. Its first effects are hardly more than annoyances—headaches, loss of appetite, sleeplessness and the like. But in time, as the body is subjected to continued intestinal poisoning, it may lead to high blood pressure, rheumatism, diabetes or even Bright's disease.

"Stop constipation if you wish to live long. Take a little Nujol every day—that will keep you regular."

Nujol relieves constipation in Nature's way

MANY GORGEOUS SILK PRINTS; FASHION FAVORS BRIGHT CREPE

WERE it possible for anything so gorgeously gay as the new silk prints which the mode heralds for spring to cast even the suggestion of a shadow, then of them might one say that "Coming events cast their shadows before." Figuratively speaking, this is true, for certain it is that all signs point to a season of patterned silks the like of which, when it comes to flamboyant design and bizarre coloring, the world of fashion ne'er knew.

Crepes, failles, shantung, georgettes, radiums, and even tafetas, show prints quaint and prints modernistic, large bold designs, tiny prim figures, border effects and all-over patternings as well. Some of the latest silks suggest the inspiration of beautiful stained glass cathedral win-are to be "the rage" this season. However, early arrivals are not waiting for spring, but already are peeping out shyly yet confidently from beneath the "comfy" fur and novelty cloth coats of the smart set. Let come balmy days and colorful gowns of crepe and silk print will burst forth as plentiful and lovely as the spring flowers themselves.

As to colorings, the fine crepe weaves, of which so many of the new models are fashioned, almost outlive nature itself in their freshness and charm. Perhaps the rose shades come first in favor. The range includes bois de rose, arabesque (very deep rose), rose-bloom, rose-beige and rose-leaf, the latter trending to pink. Closely allied to these are peach and apricot. Blues, from periwinkle to navy, are dows. Others bespeak flowers of exotic hue. Super-large chrysanthemums, daisies and roses splash their rich colorings in border design across silks whose upper portion is primly printed with small buds and leaves.

The styling of the new silks is as fraught with new interest as are the fabrics themselves. Two outstanding points in the making of these novelty silks are caplet effects and long fanciful sleeves. A third interesting feature is the trimming of bold patterned silks with solid-colored borderings, facings and pipings.

smartly fashionable. Greens are featured as chrysanthemum, citron and love-bird. Some predict a success for banana and other yellowish hues, while gray, especially opal-gray and graystone, bid fair to become leaders. Sand, beige and blond retain their usual springtime popularity.

As to materials which fashion sponsors for this season, included in the list are: Flat crepe, georgette, crepe Elizabeth, crepe-romain, crepe Louise, frost crepe, chiffon and georgette. The new weaves trend to crepe-like effects.

When it comes to the styling of these practical and handsome mate-the picture emphasizes all of these style points. The graceful side drape also bespeaks the last word in styling as does the bow of wide velvet ribbon, for there is prophesied for velvet ribbon a pronounced vogue as millinery trimming as well as dress embellishment.

Bordered silks are being made up effectively in two-piece jumper suits, the border finishing the hem of the blouse rather than that of the skirt.

Perhaps a little too early it is for the big coming-out party of the gay silken frocks which fashion declares

CANNING MEATS AT HOME IS IMPORTANT

Meats Must Be Canned in the Steam Pressure Canner.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The canning of meats on the farm has become one of the most important methods of food preservation. Only meats that have been freshly killed and cleanly handled should be preserved in this way. The United States Department of Agriculture recommends that the steam pressure canner should always be used. A high temperature of 250 degrees Fahrenheit, equivalent to a steam pressure of 15 pounds per square inch, is required to sterilize meats properly and prevent spoilage.

In selecting a pressure canner the following points should be carefully checked: A pressure canner should be strongly built and the top should clamp on tightly so that there is no leakage of steam when it is closed. There must be an air outlet with a pet cock and the top should be equipped with a pressure gauge, a thermometer, and a safety valve. Since the temperature is a measure of the pressure, it is ordinarily assumed that one can be interpreted in terms of the other. It is better, however, to have both a gauge and a thermometer, for the one serves to check the accuracy of the other. In size a pressure canner should be suited to the kind of containers and the probable number to be handled at one time. In case the canner must be lifted on and off the stove during canning, it is also important that it should not be too heavy.

Directions for Canning.

After slaughtering, the meat may be prepared for canning as soon as the animal heat has disappeared. The directions below are given for canning roast pork, but they may be applied to similar cuts of beef or lamb. The meat should always be cooked and seasoned before it is canned—whether it is roasted, fried, baked, or stewed—just as though for immediate serving, so that the flavor will be retained. It need not be cooked tender but it should be cooked until the center is no longer red. Pack the meat as hot as possible. Remove all bones and fill up the jar or can with hot gravy stock, so that the sterilization period will not be longer than necessary.

Either glass jars of tin cans may be used for canning meats. Full directions for each step in the process in either case will be found in Farmers' Bulletin 1186, "Pork on the Farm," and also recipes for preparing the various parts of the hog in different ways for canning. The flavoring and proportions in these recipes may be varied to suit individual taste, but the length of time and temperature for the processing period of each meat or mixture should never be changed.

How to Can Roast Pork.

The ham, shoulder or loin of pork is generally used for roasting. Scrape the skin clean and wipe it with a damp cloth. If the ham is used and the skin is left on, cut with the point of a knife just through the skin so as to dice it, and trim with cloves and tufts of parsley if desired. Salt and pepper to taste should be sprinkled over the ham. Heat in a roasting pan from two to three tablespoonfuls of grease. Put in the roast when this is hot and sear it quickly all over to seal the pores and prevent loss of the juice of the meat. Add two small turnips to the roasting pan, and from one-half to one cupful of boiling water. Leave skin side up and do not turn, but baste frequently. When cooked through and nicely browned, slice and pack in cans or jars to within one-half inch of the top of the can. Add the gravy from the roasting pan, or soup stock, so that it barely covers the meat. There must be at least one-quarter inch space between the gravy and the top of the can. Close the can or jar, and process in the steam pressure cooker. No. 2 cans or pint jars are processed for 45 to 50 minutes at 250 degrees Fahrenheit or 15 pounds of steam pressure. No. 3 cans or quart jars from 55 to 60 minutes at the same pressure. In case the meat is fat time for processing must be prolonged 10 minutes.

BIG DIFFERENCE IN FLOUR TYPES

Increased Use of Soft-Wheat
Will Help Prices.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It behooves the housewife to learn to tell the difference between hard-wheat and soft-wheat flours, and to know the particular use for which each is best adapted. With this knowledge she can then select a flour well suited to her needs often at a distinct saving in price and to the benefit of local industry.

The United States is now growing about as much hard wheat as it can economically. The increase in the production of baker's bread, and in the use of machine mixers in the bake shops, has greatly increased the demand for the hard-wheat flours. Their higher gluten content gives them greater ability to absorb water and to stand the severe "punishment" given the dough by power machinery.

For many home uses, soft-wheat flours are just as good or better than the hard-wheat. It is easier to make tender cake and flaky pie crust with soft-wheat flour. For thickening sauces, gravies and the hundred and one other small household needs, one kind is as good as another. The housewife can thus by greater use of soft-wheat flours, help in stabilizing demands and prices.

The housekeeper, however, sometimes has difficulty in telling what type of flour she is buying. The United States Department of Agriculture suggests the following simple tests for distinguishing hard-wheat and soft-wheat flours:

The flours from soft wheats have a velvety texture somewhat like cornstarch, and those from hard wheat are usually more gritty, but it requires some experience and a fine sense of touch to detect this difference. Experts usually do it by taking a pinch of flour and rubbing it lightly between the thumb and the third finger. Another way to tell is by squeezing a handful of it tightly and noticing whether as the hand is opened the flour remains in a mold and shows the impression of the fingers. In this test a hard-wheat flour acts more like a powder and the mold breaks up more readily than that of a soft-wheat flour. Weighing is still another method used to distinguish hard-wheat flours from soft. A quart of hard-wheat flour that has been sifted once, dipped lightly into the measure, and then leveled off, weighs about sixteen or seventeen ounces or even more. A quart of soft-wheat flour sifted and measured in the same way weighs only about fourteen or fifteen ounces.

Bread Made of Soft-Wheat Flour.

New Dessert Combination Favored in New England

Ice cream served with hot Indian pudding may be a new idea to many people, but it is a favorite combination in New England, and is worth a trial anywhere. Use vanilla ice cream and make the pudding in the following way, recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture:

Indian Pudding.
5 cupfuls milk 1 teaspoonful oil
1-3 cupful of corn salt meal 1 teaspoonful of ½ cupful molasses ginger
Cook the milk and meal in a double boiler 20 minutes; add the molasses, salt, and ginger; pour into a buttered pudding dish and bake two hours in a slow oven. This serves about eight persons. The ice cream may be placed on the same plate with the pudding, or served in a separate saucer. If ice cream is not used, serve the pudding with cream.

HOME'S BEST

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

WE WERE all sitting in the lounge of the steamer that was plowing its way through the waves of the Atlantic—fifty of us perhaps—telling tales of our wanderings and our adventures. Some had been to Prague, some to Inverness, and others had seen the wonders of Grenada or observed—that was all they had done they averred—the goings-on at Deauville and Monte Carlo. They had traveled far and wide during the summer.

They had all had a fine time, too, and were determined to go back again whenever opportunity or the bank account warranted. There was considerable discussion as to the differences in practices and customs in the various countries we had seen and those extant in our native land. Most of us had learned something from our association with the Swiss, or the French, or the Spanish, or the English, and could see in each of these various lands which we had visited, many ways of doing things which we might well adopt in our own land. There was, of course, caustic criticism of every country on the part of some, but in general an attempt to remember and to appreciate what was best in each. Then finally there was silence until Doctor White spoke up.

He was a Southern gentleman with the soft voice and the careful elimination of his final r's and the wide-brimmed hat which always gave away the man who comes from south of Mason and Dixon's line. Foreign food had been one of the items under discussion.

"What I'd like," the doctor said in his slow Southern drawl, "is a good piece of fried chicken—white meat, if you please, with a lot of gravy like my ducky cook fixes up for me at home."

"Well, I'd like to run onto a little plumbing that works," Sutton remarked. "Every fixture that I've been acquainted with this summer has leaked, or worked badly, or refused entirely to function. I'm sure that most of it is second-hand stuff out of the ark."

Cynthia Faulkner was fed up on milk chocolate. She had lived within a stone's throw of the establishment of Gala Peter and she was now wanting some real chocolate with nuts and fruit and toothsome hard centers. The first thing she did when she got home, she said, was to go straight to a candy shop.

"What I want," said Fuller, "is good butter three times a day with salt in it, and a thick juicy steak with potatoes au gratin and caramel ice cream—a lot of it—and angel food cake."

They were going home all of them, fed up on foreign food and foreign beauty and foreign customs, and they were realizing, as every loyal citizen must, some of the blessings and the comforts and the conveniences of home.

For myself I was longing for the sweep of the prairies, for wide fields of waving corn, for a decent seat in a pullman that was rolling toward home. Every country has its attractions but ultimately we all come to realize that "home's best."

(©, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

HE OUGHT TO KNOW

Guy Huston, who is one of the country's largest dirt farmers as well as being chairman of both Kansas City and Southern Minnesota banks, and president of both the New York and Chicago joint stock land banks, declares that "the bad spots in our agricultural situation that have held the farmer down since 1921 have been definitely corrected by improvement of farm prices and restoration of agricultural purchasing power."

He believes that by next summer the farmers will have reached a position of financial security and a movement will start to increase their holdings.

CAN'T LEGISLATE STATIC!

David Sarnoff, vice-president and general manager of the Radio Corporation of America, urges need of a nationwide system of radio broadcasting, with facilities powerful enough to span the oceans when desired. The exchange of international programs by radio, upon an organized basis, must wait largely upon the creation of a broadcasting system in the United States which can make the voice heard regularly across the Atlantic.

The greatest problems presented by broadcasting, he declares, are beyond the mandate of legislative action. "We cannot eliminate static by congressional veto. We cannot remove the cow from the track of progress by legislating against the speed of the railroad train."
